Alternative framing for consideration:

☐ Join the Career Intelligence community

"Get early access to new positioning frameworks, industry-specific insights, and case studies from professionals who've successfully differentiated in competitive markets. Typically 1-2 emails monthly."

University Partnership Reporting - Data Aggregation

Berkeley Career Center Compatible Output

Even though platforms collect different questions, you can still provide standardized reporting to career centers:

Standard metrics available across all platforms:

- Years of professional experience (using their brackets: 0-3, 4-7, 8-12, 13-20, 20+)
- Industry distribution
- Function distribution
- First-generation status (where collected)
- International student status (where collected)
- Underrepresented group identification (where collected)
- Completion rates by demographic segment

Platform-specific insights:

- Undergraduate: Academic program participation, internship experience levels, career exploration patterns
- Early Career: Career transition intent, graduate program enrollment patterns
- Mid-Career: Leadership level distribution, strategic positioning goals

Question Adaptations by Platform - Same Topic, Different Framing

Example: Underrepresented Group Question

Undergraduate Platform: "Do you identify as a member of an underrepresented group in your field or industry?"

Why this framing: Undergrads may not yet know which groups are underrepresented in their target field. Open-ended allows self-identification without requiring demographic disclosure.

Early Career Platform: "Do you identify as a member of an underrepresented group in your industry or function?"

Why this framing: Early career professionals have industry context and understand representation dynamics in their specific field.

Mid-Career Platform: "Do you identify as a member of an underrepresented group in senior leadership within your industry?"

Why this framing: At mid-career, the relevant underrepresentation is at leadership levels specifically, not just industry broadly.

Implementation Notes

Required vs. Optional Field Strategy

Required fields (cannot proceed without answering):

- All account creation fields
- Platform routing question
- Professional/academic context questions that inform methodology personalization
- Career goals/intent questions that determine positioning focus

Optional fields (can skip):

- All demographic questions for university partnership reporting
- "Prefer not to say" always available as option
- Additional context fields that enhance but don't determine platform experience

Progressive Disclosure

Consider showing questions in stages rather than one long form:

Stage 1: Account creation + platform routing (30 seconds) Stage 2: Professional/academic context (2-3 minutes) Stage 3:Career goals and direction (1-2 minutes) Stage 4: Optional demographic questions (1 minute if completed) Stage 5:Privacy statement + marketing opt-in (30 seconds)

Progress bar shows completion and reduces abandonment perception.
